FROM OUR CEO

It is with great pleasure that I share with you our annual impact report for 2016. Although this publication was delayed by our necessary attention to the aftermath of the hurricane, Harvey, I hope that you will find the report is still very compelling reading. In addition to financial information, we have presented an overview of programs and integrated care that will remind you of the wide scope of services offered at Santa Maria. Throughout the pages, various statistics are listed that will tell you more about our year. I am most proud of the extensive number of community collaborations and partnerships our managers and directors maintain. Not only do these offer the very best of services to our clients, these groups help to leverage efficiency across the spectrum of our program.

The wonderful support we have received has allowed us to maximize our impact and continue to offer best practices in every day service. Our Recovery Support Services department continued its growth and integration, allowing our clients in treatment to obtain the resources and skills they need to transition successfully from treatment to sustained recovery. Important connections to the Texas criminal justice system, as they move from incarceration to alternative treatment options for qualified offenders, continue to distinguish our work. We are also especially proud of the work in our Caring for

Two, an outreach and intervention that is improving birth outcomes and parenting skills for more and more mothers and their babies. We are proud to say that 123 healthy babies were born to our clients after the mothers' focus on staying drug free, obtaining vital prenatal care and living a life of reduced stress in our community.

We are grateful to the support of the United Way of Greater Houston along with the many corporate, faith-based communities and individuals that have allowed us to thrive. Our future is bright and it is because of your generosity and compassionate support.

Santa Maria is one of the few treatment centers in Texas that provides a full continuum of care for pregnant and parenting women that is designed to support them – and their children – as they travel along the personal road to recovery.

PREVENTION/EDUCATION Community outreach services to 22 co-locations, including elementary and high schools, community health clinics, the Harris County jail, and various women's centers. The programs provide coping skills to students and adults going through trauma and seek to reduce alcohol and drug abuse outside the walls of our centers.

CARING FOR TWO: PREGNANT AND POST PARTUM INTERVENTION

Outreach and intervention services that increase knowledge and adoption of healthy parenting skills and improve birth outcomes. This family-focused care and advocacy is provided not only across the spectrum of our residential programs, but also across the community, as we seek to serve the broader needs of the region at large.

RESIDENTIAL DETOXIFICATION A first step in recovery, this program is the only one of its kind in the region offering residential detoxification services to non-insured women. Supported by Baylor College of Medicine, it enables women to receive medical assistance at our Parker location, without being separated from their children.

OUTPATIENT SERVICES Group, family, and individual sessions are offered as primary or continuing treatment after a residential stay. The emphasis is on relapse prevention and recovery within a community setting. Assistance with child care and transportation – as well as help overcoming other barriers to access – makes this treatment possible at three locations: our Jacquelyn House, Bonita House and in Alvin.

EMERGENCY SHELTER This short-term, safe and secure environment is offered for women who are homeless or at the risk of homelessness and as an immediate shelter upon their release from incarceration until transitional or permanent housing can be secured. It is relatively unique, as most centers for homeless women do not offer this level of emergency service.

INTENSIVE AND SUPPORTIVE RESIDENTIAL TREATMENT Single woman and women with children receive comprehensive counseling and treatment at two sites whose services focus on long-term recovery and shaping healthy, stable families. The Bonita House helps pregnant and parenting women overcome the challenges of substance abuse in an intensive, supportive residential setting. Jacquelyn House offers residential treatment, housing, and emergency shelter for single women to help them find their paths to healthy, productive lives.

WOMEN HELPING OURSELVES (WHO) This specialized treatment alternative to incarceration offers a chance at recovery for participating clients struggling with substance use disorder. The participants, women on probation who are pregnant or have recently delivered, receive attention for both physical and behavioral health issues. They can also have their children with them during the process, supporting a more stable family environment. A full range of treatment and recovery services is offered to reduce recidivism and return participants to the community as changed individuals.

BAMBI (BABY AND MOTHER BONDING INITIATIVE) New mothers, referred from Texas Department of Criminal Justice, and their newborns receive housing and supportive services to promote healthy parenting and life skills aimed at reducing recidivism. The program – the only one of its kind in Texas – was created to ensure that mothers who are incarcerated do not have to surrender their child upon birth in a hospital. Outpatient treatment is also offered to those residents who will benefit.

WOMEN'S VETERAN'S SERVICES Transitional supportive housing assists homeless, single female veterans achieve recovery and stability in the areas of education, employment, and permanent housing through behavioral and physical health services.

TRANSITIONAL HOUSING Transitional housing and support services offered for up to 18 months to women who are homeless, with children or single. There is an emphasis on placing women who are newly embarking on their journey of recovery.

WOMEN'S RECOVERY RESIDENCE AND RECOVERY COMMUNITY CENTER Both a residence and a community center, this is our original building located just north of downtown. The private residential rooms with shared community amenities were Houston's first sober living facility solely for women and their children, and represent an innovation in recovery group programs. The community center serves as a resource for alumni activities, provides space for support meetings, and houses the offices for our Peer Recovery Coaches and prevention outreach team.

INTEGRATED SERVICES

RECOVERY SUPPORT SERVICES

Peer Recovery Coaches provide individual and group support for women in all programs to help them achieve and sustain recovery, to improve their quality of life, and to enhance their competencies and capabilities. Widely considered a Best Practice for recovery, our 12 coaches not only deliver services to women and children who need their care and expertise, but also offer gender-specific training to develop future peer coaches for the community.

CO-OCCURRING PSYCHIATRIC AND SUBSTANCE DISORDERS PROGRAM

Licensed professionals provide specialized services, treatments, and behavioral services for clients in crisis who need mental health stabilization.

COURT LIAISON

Education and advocacy designed to help women navigate the complexities of the court system and to prevent them from losing custody of their children because they do not have legal representation.

CHILDCARE AND PLAY THERAPY

Four on-site centers and additional children's play areas and relationships with and transportation to offsite pre-school and public school programs.

We're Here for RecovHERy - DEBORAH'S STORY:

“She’s a real coach, with natural ability to lead,” says Amelia Murphy, Director of Recovery Support Services (RSS) of Deborah Uselton. Deborah has joined the Peer Recovery Coach team here at SMH this year after 15 years of active drug abuse and a seemingly never-ending cycle of addiction and incarceration. A life of trauma and chaos was slowly transformed through the work Deborah did under the guidance of her mentor and coach, SMH Peer Recovery Coach, Kim Issac.

Her changes began with a visit from Kim to her jail cell. There, Deborah understood the hope of Kim’s long-term recovery message. She wanted that for her own life and through hard work and laser focus, she made recovery her reality. Today, she is an employee of the RSS team working at the Harris County Family Intervention Court, inspiring others to a life of possibilities. She is a woman in long-term recovery with a mission and a purpose. She is the face and the voice of RecovHERy as well as a proud member of the recovery movement.
